Good morning Forest Update Subscribers,

Thank you to all of you who shared your cemetery stories with me via e-mail or on the Facebook page. Please feel free to keep them coming. I'm toying with the idea of some type of book about privately owned cemeteries in Virginia – with short stories and photos. Not sure how feasible this is – let me know if you think there would be interest in such a thing (I will not share your stories without permission).

Along those same lines, I was recently made aware of a website called Find A Grave. You can search for cemeteries, post memorials and photos, and read about people buried there. I looked up ours and sure enough, there it was, along with many fascinating stories about the residents.

I was also remiss in not posting any photos of our cemetery as promised last month. I just posted a few to the VFELP Facebook page today.

On another note, I want to say THANK YOU to everyone who attended the Fall Forestry & Wildlife Field Tours. It was wonderful seeing (the top half of) your faces, and exploring beautiful Virginia. For those of you who were not able to join us, I am putting together a virtual Fall Forestry & Wildlife Field Tour. I'll feature one stop at each of the four tours. This will be available in December.

Finally, we're planning for the 2021 Woodland & Wildlife Conferences. These will look different in 2021. There will be just one conference, it will be virtual, and it will have a 2-day format.

The benefits? Reduced cost, up to 500 attendees, no travel, no snow dates, all sessions will be recorded for post conference viewing, and everyone stays safe. We are working on ways to make this fun and interactive. More details will be provided in the December e-Update.
